Hague, January 23.

'THE Earl of Strafford is expected 'back here from England, and till 'his Arrival 'tis thought the Lord 'Biſhop of London will not ſet out 'from hence. 'Tis talked that Mr. St. 'John Secretary of the Ambaſſy will make a Tour 'to Brabant before he goes over to England. M. 'd' Ahlefeld Miniſter of Denmark is recalled 'from hence; and his Daniſh Majeſty has ſent 'hither M. van Stecken, with the Caracter of his 'Reſident; this Gentleman was formerly here 'in the Quality of Secretary.

'Letters from Berlin of the 16th of January 'adviſe, that the Court of Pruſſia have delivered 'to the Czar's Miniſter there, a Declaration in 'Anſwer to that Miniſter's Memorial and to his 'Czarian Majeſty's Letter (formerly mentioned:) 'Which Declaration imports in Subſtance, that the 'three Articles alledged by the Muſcovite do not 'contradict one another but at firſt Appearance, 'and may very well be reconciled if Regard be 'had to the different Circumſtances of Time. For 'firſt of all, the Treaty with Holſtein was made 'and concluded long before that with Prince Men-'zikof; and therefore if the firſt Article of the 'Treaty with Holſtein ſays, that the Garriſons 'of Stettin and Wiſmar ſhould march out freely 'through the Country of Brandenburgh by Stral-'ſund and the Iſland of Rugen, whereas the 'Treaty with Prince Menzikof ſays, they ſhall be 'tranſported directly to Sweden; it is anſwered, 'that conſidering the Condition and Situation of 'the Swedes at the time of the firſt mentioned 'Treaty, they could not be otherways tranſ-'ported to Sweden than by paſſing to Stralſund 'and the Iſland of Rugen. Secondly, His Pruſſi-'an Majeſty engaged himſelf by the 5th Article 'of the firſt mentioned Treaty to defend Stral-'ſund and the ſaid Iſland againſt all Invaſions 'and Attacks whatſoever, and to diſſwade the 'High Allies of the North from attempting any 'thing againſt him, by amicable Repreſentations; 'and in caſe of Refuſal, to oppoſe them by his 'Forces: Whereas in the Treaty with Prince 'Menzikof his ſaid Majeſty promiſes his ſaid Allies 'a free Paſſage through his own Territories 'and the ſequeſtred Part of Pomerania, in caſe 'they would attack the ſaid Town and Iſland: To 'this ſeeming Contradiction it is anſwered, that 'ſeeing the Swediſh General Meyerfeldt could 'not be perſwaded to put under the Protection and 'Keeping of his Pruſſian Majeſty the Towns 'of Stettin and Wiſmar, according to the Agreement 'made with Holſtein, but ſtood a Siege and Bom-'bardment of the firſt of thoſe Places, this has 'changed the Nature of the Caſe, and given Oc-'caſion for the new Engagement with Prince 'Menzikof, which has been already put in Execu-'tion by the Liberty which the Troops of the 'Northern Allies have had to paſs and repaſs over 'the Territories of his Pruſſian Majeſty, and which 'they may have again in caſe Sweden ſhould 'give new Diſturbance to Poland, Saxony, and 'the Daniſh Holſtein. Thirdly, If his Pruſſi-'an Majeſty has entred into Engagements for the 'Reſtitution and Indemnification of the Duke of 'Holſtein, which ſeems to his Czarian Majeſty ſo 'contrary and prejudicial to the Intereſts of his 'Ally the King of Denmark, and conſequently in-'compatible with that ſtrict Friendſhip and En-'gagement contracted by the Treaty with Prince 'Menzikof, his Majeſty refers himſelf to the Let-'ter which he wrote to the Czar in Anſwer to his, 'in which he repreſented, that in the Quality of 'Member of the Circle of Lower Saxony, and 'even of Director in the Place and on the Default 'of the King of Sweden, he is abſolutely obliged 'conformably to Juſtice and to the Conſtitutions 'of the Empire to uſe his beſt Endeavours for re-'eſtabliſhing the Tranquility of that Circle, as 'well as procuring reaſonable Satisfaction for the 'Duke of Holſtein. But as the ſaid Duke has al-'ready propoſed divers Expedients for an Acco-'modation, which is to be intirely adjuſted and 'terminated by the Congreſs at Brunſwick, his 'Majeſty hopes the Czar will on his part acquieſce 'in theſe Methods of Gentleneſs and Accomo-'dation which wholly exclude the Way of Arms, 'for which there is no Neceſſity, and conſequently 'there is no Cauſe of Apprehenſion.

'Theſe Letters from Berlin add, that Baron 'Gortz had made Complaint there, that the Danes 'had permitted the Entrance of Proviſions into 'Tonningen, but had refuſed to let Wood for fi-'ring and other Neceſſaries be carried in, without 'which the Victuals would be of little or no uſe. 'Twas believed at Berlin, that for the future the 'Court of Pruſſia will not Act in favour of the 'Duke of Holſtein any other Way than by Re-'preſentations; and 'twas ſaid Baron Gortz would 'make a Journey to Vienna, to try whether he 'can ſucceed better there than in all the other 'Courts where he has negociated hitherto. 'Tis 'ſaid the Hereditary Prince of Heſſe-Caſſel is 'not better ſatisfied with the Court of Berlin, 'who have not thought fit to enter into the Views 'and Propoſitions made to them by that Prince 'with reſpect to his Marriage; and 'twas ſuppo-'ſed he was gone to Hanover to try to engage that 'Court in his Intereſts.

'Letters from Dantzick of the 30th of Decem-'ber adviſe, that the Hatred againſt the Saxons 'continues in Poland, and that the Friends of 'Staniſlaus have ſpread a Rumour that King Au-'guſtus had promiſed all the Palatinates and Sta-'roſts to make their Offices and Dignities Hereditary, if they would concurr to render him ab-'ſolute, that this had given Umbrage to the 'greateſt Part of the Nobility, and that two Days 'before that Prince's Departure from Warſaw 'for Saxony a Writing was found affixed on all 'the Church-Doors, containing theſe Words a-'mong others,

Rex mane
Aut deſine manere Rex.

Electum Coronavimus,
Ejectum Revocavimus,
Non Milites tuos. &c.

Yeſterday arrived a Mail from Dunkirk.

Dunkirk, Jan. 18. "Our Demolition goes on "ſtill, they having levelled in a great many "Places between the Citadel and Port-Royal, and "likewiſe between Port Royal and Port-Newport, "and in ſome Places between Port-Newport and "the Haver; but there is ſtill a great many high "Works, eſpecially the Cavalier at Baſtion-Royal, "and another by the Haver, which will take up "Time yet. The Fort on the Eaſtermoſt Head "or Fort Verd is near cut down, and they talk of "beginning on the Port in February, but whether "the Rigour of Weather will hinder or not is un-"certain.

London, January 22.

Laſt Night arrived from Flanders the Mail of Friday laſt.

From the Hague Courant, dated Jan. 26.

Barcelona, Dec. 30. The 20th Inſtant we received Letters from the Governour of Cardona, in which he gives an Account, that the Inhabitants of Sol-ſona, Manreza, and about Berga, had declared a-new for the Defence of their native Country; and that affect the [illegible]

General Vallejo, had drawn together above 5000 Men, and was marching with them this Way, to try whether with the Assistance of a Detachment out of this City it might be feasible to attack the Duke de Popoli's Camp, he having Intelligence that it was very weak, and that the Marquis de Querci was gone with the French Troops to Rousillon. The 18th Don Juan Carbonel Major of Fusiliers came in here, with 500 Sheep, which he had taken the Day before near Mataro from the Enemy. On Christmas-Eve the greatest Part of our Garrison made a Sally on the Side of our Lady of Grace; our Men defeated all the Castilians whom they found in that Quarter, and after they had set their Barracks on Fire, they came back with 200 Prisoners. P. S. Just now we have Advice, that the Governour of Cardona is advanced with his Detachment to Sallies, within 4 Leagues of this Place.

Turin, Jan. 12. 'Tis the Talk here, that M. de Mellarede is speedily to set out for Germany, to have an Eye to the Interests of our Court in the Negociations of Peace between the Emperour and the King of France.

Lisle, Jan. 21. We see here private Letters from Versailles of the 19th Instant, advising, that the Negociations of Peace at Rastad are broken off without Effect; and that the King has therefore given Order to forbear the further Reform of his Troops, and to distribute the Utensils for the ensuing Campaign to the Officers. Proclamation has been made in this City by sound of Trumpet, that whoever have by them any Callicoes, Muslins, or the like East-India Goods, must dispose of them within six Weeks, on the Penalty of a large Fine, and of having the Goods burnt by the common Executioner.

Hague, Jan. 25. Letters from Rastad advise, that Prince Eugene had received a Courier back from Vienna, and after holding a Conference with the Marshal de Villars, dispatched that Courier again to the Imperial Court, whence he was expected back by the End of this Month.

London, January 22.
